This Document Proclaims That has come into possession of

A Black Scroll

You have discovered one of the Twelve Black Scrolls. Rather than return it to the Scorpion Clan, from whom it was stolen, you have chosen to keep the Scroll yourself. The Scroll appears to be made from a thick, black, oily parchment, and the writing within glows with a faint green light. Each adventure you play while you possess the Scroll, you automatically lose a point of Honor (two points if you are a Scorpion).

To cast the spell from the Scroll, all you need to do is read the incantation within. No die roll is necessary. You can learn the incantation as an Innate Ability (allowing you to cast it without the Scroll) by spending 4 Experience Points.

The spell inflicts the Wasting Disease, a foul and almost certainly fatal plague, on any one target within your sight. Every time you cast the spell, you gain three points of Shadowlands Taint.

The scroll is indestructible. You cannot voluntarily choose to rid yourself of it unless you can make a Simple Willpower roll at TN 25.
